(GLENS FALLS, NY) The Glens Falls Area Baseball Hall of Fame display is now on exhibit in the Queensbury branch of Glens Falls National Bank.

The display features information about the five baseball players from this area who were elected to the Hall last summer, as the Class of 2005. Athletes included are Doug Drabek, Joey Eischen, Ron Kittle, Les Lancaster and Randy St. Claire.

Eischen and St. Claire are currently with the Washington Nationals, Eischen as a relief pitcher and St. Claire as pitching coach. Lancaster is manager of the Reno Silver Sox in the Golden Baseball League. Kittle spent spring training on the advisory staff of the World Champion Chicago White Sox. Drabek, no longer active in organized baseball, is supporting his son who is an outstanding pitcher and position player in Texas high school baseball.

Voting to elect a new Class of 2006 will take place during games of the New York Collegiate Baseball League's Glens Falls Golden Eagles. The Golden Eagles' home season begins on Saturday, June 10th at East Field.

The Hall of Fame display will remain at the Queensbury office of Glens Falls National Bank for three weeks, after which it will be moved to the Broad Street Branch.

Induction of the Classes of 2005 and 2006 is tentatively scheduled to take place on Saturday, November 11th at The Queensbury Hotel.
